

PoongMul Workshop

In Collaboration with the Music Department

풍물

Korean Rhythms in motion

The Center for Korean Studies, in collaboration with the Department of Music, will offer an immersive six-session Poongmul (풍물) workshop series in Spring 2026. Poongmul, a traditional Korean percussion ensemble, has long been performed at village festivals, farming celebrations, and community gatherings to express joy, unity, and collective spirit. Today, Poong (풍) carries a broader meaning, representing an authentic experience of Korean rhythm, aesthetics, and sensibility that continues to inspire both traditional and contemporary performances. This workshop offers students hands-on engagement with authentic instruments and an opportunity to explore the enduring cultural vitality of Poongmul in Korean society.
