JAZZ AT LINCOLN CENTER ORCHESTRA WITH WYNTON MARSALIS

PROGRAM NOTES

Max Roach (1924-2007) transformed the sound of the drums, re-orchestrating the instrument itself. He defied limits, subverted roles, and innovated methods for improvisation and unbound freedom of expression. Profoundly—singularly—his artistry revolutionized how the drums communicate and influenced the direction of live and recorded music.

As only they can, members of the Jazz at Lincoln Center Orchestra with Wynton Marsalis transmit the resonance of Roach's impact to intergenerational audiences. Their creativity as orchestrators, improvisers, and consummate storytellers honors his centennial with new arrangements of original repertoire from his seminal albums. "He's one of the great freedom fighters in the history of jazz," says Jazz at Lincoln Center Managing and Artistic Director Wynton Marsalis, "an unbelievable drum virtuoso who invented the modern style of drum."

As a band leader and collaborator, Roach approached his instrument with musicality, imagination, and staggering virtuosity. He became a statement maker with something new, something profound to say until his death in 2007. In developing his own vocabulary—articulating time on the ride cymbal, alongside fellow innovator Kenny Clarke—Roach would center agility, develop vocabulary, and create new forums for improvisation and dialogue. The ways he would explore space and texture – and later tonality, composition, and orchestration – elevated his artistry and helped originate small group sounds for Dizzy Gillespie, Charlie Parker, Bud Powell, and Miles Davis, as well as era-defining projects that featured Charles Mingus, Clifford Brown, Abbey Lincoln, and Duke Ellington.

"You could take four bars from Max and come up with a lifetime of vocabulary on the instrument -playing bebop," says Co-Music Director and JLCO Drummer Obed Calvaire, "That's how much he's influenced our music. You can take those four bars and put the pieces together in all kinds of ways anything you do, it'll always work out. That's how musical he was. Don't get me wrong - Max had tremendous technique. He could play as fast as anyone. But when he sat on the drums it was always music. Everything came as a dialog to him. He was just a genius and there will never be another Max Roach."

As an artist, Roach invited radical love and activism into every aspect of his work, blazing a trail for future generations to demand change and fight for civil rights. "He was ceaselessly creative," says Marsalis, "one of the deepest believers in democratic freedoms - and he fought for those freedoms." Through their artistic commitment as individuals and as a collective force, the JLCO pays homage to Roach's legacy that, after so many years, continues to affirm every artist's calling to empower creative expression and affect meaningful change.

Wynton Marsalis (Music Director.

Trumpet) is the Managing and Artistic Director of Jazz at Lincoln Center. Born in New Orleans, Louisiana in 1961 to a musical family, Mr. Marsalis was gifted his first trumpet at age 6 by Al Hirt. By 8, he began playing in the famed Fairview Baptist Church Band led by Danny Barker. Yet it was not until he turned 12 that Marsalis began his formal training on the trumpet. Subsequently, Wynton began performing in bands all over the city, from the New Orleans Philharmonic and New Orleans Youth Orchestra to a funk band called the Creators. His passion for music rapidly escalated. As a young teenager fresh out of high school, Wynton moved to New York City in 1979 to attend The Juilliard School to study classical music. Once there, however, he found that jazz was calling him. His career quickly launched when he traded Juilliard for Art Blakey's band, The Jazz Messengers. By 19, Wynton hit the road with his own band and has been touring the world ever since. From 1981 to date, Wynton has performed 4.777 concerts in 849 distinct cities and 64 countries around the world. Mr. Marsalis made his recording debut as a leader in 1982 and has since recorded 110 jazz and classical albums, four alternative records, and released five DVDs. In total, he has recorded 1,539 songs at the time of this writing. Marsalis is the winner of 9 GRAMMY Awards, and his oratorio Blood on the Fields was the first jazz composition to win the Pulitzer Prize for Music. He's the only musician to win a GRAMMY Award in two categories, jazz and classical, during the same year (1983, 1984).

Mr. Marsalis has solidified himself as an internationally acclaimed musician, composer and bandleader, educator and advocate of American culture. As a composer, his body of work includes over 600 original songs, 11 ballets, four symphonies, eight suites, two chamber pieces, one string quartet, two masses, one violin concerto, and in 2021, a tuba concerto. Included in this rich body of compositions is Sweet Release; Jazz: Six Syncopated Movements; Jump Start and Jazz; Citi Movement/Griot New York; At the Octoroon Balls; In This House, On This Morning; and Big Train. As part of his work at Jazz at Lincoln Center, Wynton has produced and performed countless new collaborative compositions, including the ballet Them Twos, for a 1999 collaboration with the New York City Ballet. That same year, he premiered the monumental work All Rise, commissioned and performed by the New York Philharmonic along with the Jazz at Lincoln Center Orchestra and the Morgan State University Choir. All Rise was performed with the Tulsa Symphony Orchestra as part of the remembrance of the centennial anniversary of the Tulsa Race Massacre in June 2021. Since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, Wynton and the Jazz at Lincoln Center Orchestra have released 7 full-length albums and 4 singles on Blue Engine Records.

Mr. Marsalis is also a globally respected teacher and spokesman for music education. For Jazz. Wynton led the effort to construct Jazz at Lincoln Center's new home-Frederick P. Rose Hall-the first education, performance, and broadcast facility devoted to jazz, which opened in October 2004. He conducts educational programs for students of all ages and hosts the popular Jazz for Young People™ concerts produced by Jazz at Lincoln Center. In addition to his work at JALC, Wynton is also the Founding Director of Jazz Studies at the Juilliard School. Mr. Marsalis has written and is the host of the video series "Marsalis on Music," the radio series "Making the Music," and a weekly conversation series titled "Skain's Domain." He has written and co-written nine books, including two children's books, Squeak, Rumble, Whomp! Whomp! and Jazz ABZ: An A to Z Collection of Jazz Portraits, both illustrated by Paul Rogers. Wynton has received such accolades as having been appointed Messenger of Peace by United Nations Secretary-General Kofi Annan (2001), The National Medal of Arts (2005). The National Medal of Humanities (2016). In December 2021. Marsalis and Jazz at Lincoln Center were awarded the Key to New York City by Mayor Bill de Blasio. Marsalis has received honorary doctorates from 39 universities and colleges throughout the U.S, including Harvard, Yale, Princeton, and Tulane University in New Orleans. Wynton Marsalis' core beliefs and foundation for living are based on the principles of jazz. He promotes individual creativity (improvisation), collective cooperation (swing),

Elliot Mason (Trombone, JLCO) was born in England into a family of jazz musicians. Mr. Mason began studying trumpet at age four with his father, who was a trumpet and trombone player/educator. At age seven, struck with an overwhelming curiosity in his father's trombone, young Mason soon switched his focus from the trumpet. Mr. Mason received a full tuition scholarship to attend Berklee College of Music at age sixteen. After graduating from Berklee at nineteen, Mr. Mason moved to New York City where he distinguished himself as a respected and highly in demand trombone/bass trumpet player. In 2007, Elliot Mason was invited to become a member of the Jazz at Lincoln Center Orchestra, directed by Wynton Marsalis. While continuing to perform with the JLCO, Mr. Mason co-leads the Mason Brothers Quintet with his brother Brad, and leads his own band, Cre8tion. Dan Nimmer (Piano, JLCO) was born in 1982 in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. As a young man, Nimmer's family inherited a piano and he started playing by ear. He studied classical piano and eventually became interested in jazz. At the same time, he began playing gigs around Milwaukee. Upon graduation from high school, Nimmer left Milwaukee to study music at Northern Illinois University. It didn't take him long to become one of Chicago's busiest piano players. Working a lot in the Chicago scene, Nimmer decided to leave school and make the big move to New York City where he immediately emerged in the New York scene. In 2005, a year after moving to New York City, he became a member of both the Jazz at Lincoln Center Orchestra and the Wynton Marsalis Quintet. Nimmer has performed and recorded with Jimmy Cobb, Norah Jones, Willie Nelson, Renée Fleming, Houston Person, Fareed Haque, George Benson, Lewis Nash, and many more. He has released six of his own trio albums on the Venus label (Japan).

Marcus Printup (Trumpet, JLCO) was born and raised in Convers, Georgia. His first musical experiences were hearing the sanctified and soulful Gospel music his parents (Ann and Bobby), grandparents (J.C.) and older sister (Angela) sang in church. While attending the University of North Florida on a music scholarship, he won the International Trumpet Guild Jazz Trumpet competition. In 1991, Printup's life changed when he met his mentor, the great pianist Marcus Roberts, who introduced him to Wynton Marsalis. He subsequently joined Roberts as his road manager/understudy for 2 years. 1993 was a banner year for Printup. He performed for the first time with Marsalis in the latter's collaboration with the New York City Ballet, "Jazz in Six Syncopated Movements" which led to Printup's induction into the then Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra. Also, during this time, Printup was noticed by jazz legend, Betty Carter. Ms. Carter invited Printup to be in her inaugural and prestigious "Betty Carter Jazz Ahead" group, performing in a series of concerts at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Printup has performed and/ or recorded with Marcus Roberts, Betty Carter, Dianne Reeves, Guru, Madeline Peyroux, Ted Nash, Dianne Schuur, Cyrus Chestnut, and Wycliffe Gordon, among many others. He
